PARKER

— 125 YEARS —

"it will always be possible to make a better pen"

Geo. S. Parker

For the last 125 years PARKER has built a company, which has succeeded not only at innovating but also reinventing the market, establishing itself as one of the world's leading Fine Writing brands.

The PARKER story began when a young entrepreneur stated that "it will always be possible to make a better pen". George Safford Parker, a 25-year-old part-time fountain pen salesman was dismayed by the unreliability of the pens on the market and in 1888 he founded the PARKER Pen Company, paving the way for a long line of breakthrough technologies and design innovations. In 1894, George Safford Parker patented the Lucky Curve, a revolutionary pen with its pioneering anti-leak ink feed system which revolutionized the market and delighted ink-stained writers everywhere. The 1930's saw a new engineering breakthrough from PARKER with the Vacumatic, a pen featuring a sacless filling mechanism that held over twice as much ink as other pens. Over a century later, in 2011, PARKER unveiled the Parker 5TH Technology, a new writing mode offering an ultra-smooth smart glide tip that adapts to your own writing style to create a beautiful writing experience and providing an easy and clean refill system, guaranteed not to leak – a technology unrivalled at the time.

PARKER has an equally long heritage of aesthetic innovation, which is best encompassed with masterpieces such as, in the 1920's, the Duofold with its audacious burst of orange which defied the status quo or, in 1939, the Parker 51, which was the first pen to take inspiration from the design and engineering of the automobile and aviation industries with its hooded nib and streamline shape, earning it the coveted Academy Award for Best-Design of its time.

PARKER has a long history of unique know-how which has paved the way for the creation of some of the industry's most memorable and innovative products of the last 125 years. The most important part in the making of a PARKER pen is its 'engine' which includes the finely sharpened nib, made from up to 18K solid gold on the higher-end models, and its ink feed system regulating the flow of the high quality PARKER Quink Ink. Chiseling and engraving techniques are used to decorate nibs, caps and barrels. The beauty of PARKER's meticulously selected materials and precious metals – up to sterling silver or 18K solid gold on the most premium models – is enhanced by manual polishing and other decorative treatments on most of the pens. Gems and new coatings with tactile effects also participate to the premium look and feel of the prestigious PARKER pen collections.

PARKER is a lifelong partner, for those who strive for achievement and write their own story.
